A Level Psychology Induction Task

Introduction: We are very excited about introducing you to this fascinating subject; we are sure that you will come to love it as much as we do.

Task: Over the summer holiday, we would like you to prepare for a mocktail party; its theme will be the history of psychology. To ensure that you've got plenty to say to your fellow guests at the party, you will need to do your research. Complete a card for each guest to stash in your handbag/man bag. Wundt's card has already been completed for you to provide a model of what the finished cards should look like.

In addition, we would like you to research the different types of careers that can be accessed with a psychology degree.
